29th. Sunday in Ordinary Time October 22, 2017

First Reading: Isaiah 45:1, 4-6

The enthronement of Cyrus marks the only time in the Old Testament when a foreigner is anointed king. In this text, God is announcing that He is the one and only Lord.

Second Reading: I Thessalonians 1:1-5b

The Letter opens with the typical form of salutation of the day. Then Paul proceeds to thank God for the fruitful reception of the Gospel by the Thessalonian Christians. Gospel:

Matthew 22:15-21

The Pharisees try entrapment to get at Jesus. This is still a legal offense in our modern courts. Jesus outwits them with a classic answer. Doing so, He accepts the state as the lesser of two evils while He looks to nonviolent social change.

Reflection by Rev. Leonard N. Peterson

If I were asked to identify an all-encompassing theme for 2017, as we find ourselves this weekend deep into its tenth month, one word springs to mind: violence. We've seen it in our streets, and on the screens of our many devices, large and small.

On a graph, I could say that "road rage" between individuals starts at the bottom. Then, rising quickly to street protests about political differences, and presidential decisions. Then come the so-called "hot button" issues like immigration, sexual preferences, and racism. All of this not to omit the verbal assaults between the leaders of our country and those of other regimes. The graph of violence is more depressing than any we might see drawn up for the stock market.

These matters tempt us to turn the news off in whatever form we receive it. Yet our instinct to know what's new draws us back. We somehow recognize that an ostrich approach to reality is unhealthy. But where, we ask, can we turn for perspective as well as peace? For Christian believers, the answer is the same as it has been for twenty-one centuries: turn to Jesus.

Right away, should we say such a thing in certain quarters, the reaction is predictable. First there is the shoutdown of the cynics, the atheists and not a few agnostics. Not to omit the editors of secular publications. With a certain subtlety, they soften the base sentiment underneath but they let us know they strongly disagree. They would never actually write: "Drop your sentimental tripe!"

This kind of reaction has been going on since Jesus Himself was personally present announcing His new way of thinking and doing things. Such rejection always seems to be the fate of people with a fresh idea. Or a different take on the prevailing wisdom. Inventive geniuses come to mind. As do certain philosophers and teachers of the arts and sciences.

In the scenario Matthew presents this weekend, the "powers that were" (which remind us so much of the current "powers that be") try their well-worn tactic of making Christ look defenseless, and a prey to naivety. But He turns the tables on them. Or should I write "He flips a coin on them?"

It is crucial for us to remember when we think of Jesus that He is truly God in the flesh, "the one and only Lord", as Isaiah writes. There is nothing beyond His power, for He can "subdue mountains and make kings run in His service." Fortified by the Holy Eucharist, our certain task is not to lose confidence in Christ, or let violence have the last word. We are a people of hope. "Hope is putting faith to work when doubting would be easier."
