Christ the King Sunday November 26, 2017

First Reading: Ezekiel 34:11-12, 15-17

God will be the Good Shepherd caring for the weak. He will also separate the bad from the good sheep as Judge.

Second Reading: I Corinthians 15:20-26, 28

Christ is the new Adam, who restores what the old Adam lost. He will also destroy all the evil powers which have held us hostage.

Gospel: Matthew 25:31-46

This famous passage describes the General Judgment of all the nations at the end of the world. It is also the grand finale of the public ministry of Jesus as recorded by Matthew.

Reflection by Rev. Leonard N. Peterson

Some years ago the TV magazine "Sixty Minutes" did a piece on the financial disaster visited upon people who let their credit card debt pile up to an overwhelming degree. I remember specifically the lament of a young wife and mother who admitted that she forgot that a bill comes in the mail at the end of the month for all those who pay "with plastic", as the saying goes. That last was unforgettable.

If you have already perused the Readings for this weekend's Liturgy you likely know where I'm headed. Just as some people forget that there will be an accounting for our spending, so there will be one for our sinning.

Not the most pleasant of thoughts is it for Thanksgiving weekend? But sometimes there will be clashes between the Church, or Liturgical calendar and the one hanging in your kitchen or the one on your cell phone. Today in the Church could actually be subtitled "New Year's Eve." It is the last Sunday of the current liturgical year, and the Church wants us to be mindful of that stupendous day when this world will end. That day will feature, according to St. Paul, a general judgement of us all by the Supreme Judge, God Himself.

With these Readings, especially the Gospel from Matthew, the Church wants us to step back from all the things we're doing that have a way of absorbing all our energies, physical and spiritual. Then we forget that the main thing is still the main thing: our relationship with God. Our love and obedience to what He demands of us as our Creator.

The way Matthew describes the scene is powerful, because it presents a simple line of demarcation, namely service of others. That one line goes to the heart of the matter: "I say to you, what you did/did not do for others you did/did not do for me." All the selfishness and entitlement that our present culture urges us to bring to the bargaining table of life suddenly sounds like the ugly thing it is. Especially when just outside our scope of vision lie the needy of the world.

Just last Thursday we gathered with our families around the table groaning with goodies in the food department and prayed gratefully for that food and the countless blessings we enjoy as Americans, so on this Sunday of Christ the King we call to mind our need not to squander them. In addition, we can pray sincerely for those who have less than we do of this world's goods. And before we dare compose our Christmas list of what more we're wanting, we can resolve to use the coming Advent season as a time for giving to others.

Not just at the end of this short Advent month, but at the end of time there will be recorded next to our name a grand total of credit. And the Supreme Judge will smile.

Lessons And Carols

Music rehearsals have been going well and if you still want to sing with us, please call Jim Coakley.

The format of Lessons & Carols is always the same but this year we have a few exciting additions, and probably the biggest is that it will be on Sunday December 10.

It is always an uplifting entertaining evening and those who are there enjoy it, so take a break from your Christmas shopping, baking and decorating and give yourself and your family the gift of beautiful, spiritual live music.

If you have any questions, please call Jim Coakley, whose number is in the bulletin.

FREE CONCERT FOR LIFE

The annual free Concert for Life to benefit the moms and babies at Good Counsel Home, Spring Valley, will be on Saturday, Dec. 9, at 2 pm at the Marian Shrine, 174 Filors Lane, Stony Point.

Come and enjoy the music performed by pianist Michael Fennelly and soprano Megan Weston, The No Boundaries praise & worship musical group, the St. Joseph's High School Broadway Theater Workshop, and others.

This year's honoree is Liz O'Brien, chair of the Rockland Right to Life Committee. Refreshments afterwards.

A free-will donation will be suggested during the concert. To take an ad in the journal, call 845-492-6709.

Pot Luck Supper & Raffle Saturday, December 2, 2017 6:00 PM in Msgr. Boyd Hall

The raffle is for 6 gift certificates to local restaurants valued at $50 each and the price per chance is $10
